"Serving our customers in select domestic and international niche markets with high value, high quality, heavy equipment attachments."

CWS Industries, a Canadian company, designs and manufactures top quality attachments including cabs and machine conversions for heavy equipment. CWS products are utilized in agriculture, construction, oil, gas, and mining industries around the world.

Starting in 1963, CWS began as Custom Welding and Steel Fabricators with a company slogan "Specializing in Backhoe and Loader Buckets". As the demand for CWS products increased, the company has expanded to serve both domestic and international niche markets.

In a strategic decision to bring together companies with complimentary products, experience, expertise, and similar cultures, CWS acquired IMAC Design Group Ltd in 2005.

With headquarters in Surrey, BC, CWS and IMAC now have merged to operate as one single company with manufacturing facilities in British Columbia and Alberta, Canada.

As a result, our various product offerings range from small buckets to more complex custom designed earth moving solutions. CWS offers the most comprehensive range of industrial attachments including: blades, buckets, cabs, forks, grapples, thumbs for excavators, loaders, front shovels, dozers, and various other types of heavy equipment.

With a deep understanding of our customers' applications and operating conditions, CWS is able to provide the best product to suit the needs of the customer, whether it's an "off-the-shelf" bucket or a highly specialized mine machine.

CWS is a one-stop shop for standard and custom designed attachments.
